CONGRESSMEN BANQUET GUESTS

MCLACHLAN POINTS TO TRANSPORTATION MATTERS

Chamber of Commerce Affair at the Young Hotel Is Largely Attended — Scott Praises Congress.

Congressman McLaughlin of California addressing the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their guests last evening on "Commerce" took occasion to remind them that although the people were complaining about the transportation facilities between island ports and the mainland, they had a great part of the solution in their own hands.

Mr. McLaughlin reminded his hearers that one steamship company was carrying a very large proportion of the freight of the islands and that steamship company did not make provision for one single passenger.

This was said supplementary to Mr. McLaughlin's statement that he had not made up his mind on the subject of transportation and the appeal for the suspension of the coastwise shipping law. The intimation was that the local people had not exhausted their own resources in dealing with the transportation problem.

Good roads were also vigorously dealt with by the representative from California. He praised the roads of the majority of the islands but scored in effective terms the miserable state of the roads in the County of Hawaii. He told of what his county, Los Angeles, has done in voting a loan of three millions and a half dollars to be expended on good roads. This is to be expended under the supervision of fifteen leading business men who are to see that a dollar's worth of return is secured for every dollar expended. His County has also sent to Washington for the best road engineer the Government can produce.

The banquet given by the Chamber of Commerce last evening to the guests of the Territory was quite the most elaborate and successful that has ever been given by the organization. The lounging room of the Young Hotel was transformed into a banquet hall and the diners were seated at individual tables. The room under the guidance of Manager Hertsche fitted the occasion perfectly. The decorations were attractive, added lights made everything brilliant and the Hawaiian band outside on the roof garden furnished the right touch of music. The extreme loyalty of the guests to the Anglo-Saxon brotherhood was shown when they all rose while the band was playing "God Save the King."

W. G. Irwin presided and seated at the head table with him were Hon. Richard Bartholdt, of St. Louis, dean of the Congressional party; Governor Frear, Rear Admiral Sebree, U. S. N.; Col. Walter S. Schuyler, U. S. A.; Consul General Tseng Hai, of China; Delegate Kalaniana'ole, Bishop Restarick and Federal Judge Woodruff.

L. Tenney Peck, who had charge of the banquet, acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers with very appropriate comment.

Congressman Bartholdt, dean of the delegation, responded to the toast "The President," and said in part: "Despite the constitutional limitations of his power, the President of the United States is the mightiest chief magistrate in the world. He stands for and represents the honor and glory of the greatest flag that was ever born, that flag to which, when the people of other lands boast of national achievement, Americans proudly point and blantly say to all the world: 'Match it, if you can, the peerless glory of human freedom, of broad-minded, intellectual development told in the mystic webwork of the stars and stripes!' He is not only the commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the United States.

but also, the conservator of the peace, the most priceless boon of a nation, and added responsibilities have come to him on that score. The civilized nations of the earth have fast become one great family, and what we do and what others do in the national arena is rapidly growing to be the concern of all. In other words all national affairs local to the individual nation, are now subject to international considerations, and in such an era the desire is quite natural to extend the rule of law from merely local and national to world-wide relations and to substitute judicial decisions for the arbitrament of the sword in all controversies between nations. Abraham Lincoln put a stop to man-selling, and the civilized world now looks to William H. Taft to set the pace in a humane effort to stop man-killing and to inaugurate, amidst the plaudits and blessings of all mankind, an era of more permanent peace.

We rejoice in the possession of a President who is a great jurist and who, we know, will prove equal to all responsibilities as well as to all legitimate expectations and will add new luster to the American name the world over.

"Congress" was the topic assigned to Congressman Scott of Kansas. Mr. Scott having served twelve years as a Washington correspondent said he preferred to speak as a reporter and tell the truth about Congress. He scored the "muck rakers" in scathing terms. He spoke of the general truthfulness of the members of Congress and the unswerving honor of the members of committees who become experts in the various matters to which their attention is directed, and on whose word the members must rely when drawing their final conclusions. Mr. Scott stated that while there might be some few black sheep in Congress there was no place on earth where they were more promptly sized up and put in their proper place. He touched on the much discussed rules of the House of Representatives and declared they were the development of experience and the best judgment of the members. And as for Uncle Joe Cannon, he was entitled to his position by virtue of this thirty-six years of service, but added to that was a brilliant mind, great capacity and the high esteem of his associates.

Great enthusiasm greeted Admiral Sebree when he rose to respond to the toast "The Navy." The Admiral spoke of the high standard of the enlisted men of the navy and hoped for legislation that would hold the young men for more general enlistment.

Hon. Olin Young of Michigan spoke to the toast "The Army," preceding his remarks with the statement that the work of the Military Committee was to make the army get along on the last amount and do the most and the best work of any army on earth. He dwelt on general topics and the apparent need of Hawaii for improved harbors, and shipping facilities.

Congressman McLaughlin, after expressing his views on the transportation problem and the roads of the Territory, bespoke the need for closer relations between his home county, Los Angeles, and Hawaii. He believes ships should carry the freights and the passengers that have now to pay the railroad fare to San Francisco and then the steamer rate to Honolulu.

Mr. McLaughlin referring to Hawaii's representation in Washington, stated that Delegate Kubie and Secretary McClellan were the greatest working team at the capitol and the people of the islands should return the Delegate to continue his work. This reference to the Delegate was met with great applause.

Governor Frear closed the program with a speech on "Hawaii." The Governor made a very able presentation of the needs of the Territory and the much talked of homestead law. He pointed out some of the difficulties in the way and suggested some of the solutions. He declared that the policy must not be destructive; there is no use to destroy sugar as it is the goose that lays the golden egg, the basis of all the prosperity of the islands.

The Chamber of Commerce had as its guests the Congressmen, officers of the fleet, Federal commissioners and guests from the mainland, the Army in Hawaii, the National Guard of Hawaii, the Navy in Hawaii, Federal officials, Territorial executive, Territorial Legislature, Territorial Supreme Court, the Mayor, President and Trustees of the Merchants' Association, the Bar, the Church, the Press and the Territorial Entertainment Committee. Those present were:

JACKSON WILL RUN TSUKAMOTO RACE

Nigel Jackson has accepted Tsukamoto's challenge to run a full Marathon distance race. His communication to the Bulletin reads as follows:

"In reply to Tsukamoto's challenge for a Marathon race I have to say that I accept with pleasure, and that I will run under any management except that which conducted the last ten miles race. I will run Mr. Tsukamoto any time and place he wishes, and will show him that I am his master over the Marathon distance."

(Signed) NIGEL JACKSON,
"Champion Long Distance Runner of the Hawaiian Islands."

It is probable that the race will be brought off in the near future, and it should be a great struggle from start to finish. W. Chilton is Jackson's manager, and he is now ready to talk business with Tsukamoto's representative.

WHOA! MAUD

The occasional troubles of a quarantine officer yesterday received an illustration on board the Aorangi when a lady of patrician aspect assigned Dr. Ramus to unknown regions in effect, locked her stateroom door in his face, threatened to sue the United States and have the doctor annihilated.

After fruitless efforts to conciliate the lady, who remained stubborn, the doctor finally passed the ship and ordered the officers to see that the obstreperous woman was confined on board during her stay in port.
